Y INSTITUTE

Politics As a Service — Even for Non-Political Citizens.

SECTION 1: THE EIGHT PILLARS

PILLAR 1 — ECONOMY

A. Now that everyone knows how important gas prices are to Democrats, the USA can agree to massively produce and refine oil and get oil to $2 a gallon base price (before state taxes).

B. Our finance system will provide not only lower taxes, but also HIGHER income for the government to service the debt, and give people more services in a more efficient way. We will make policies that keep the massive amount of foreign investment that has been coming into the US flowing. We want to keep the good from every type of person in the system, and get rid of the bad — but there is no reason to throw the baby out with the bathwater (well, for some of you, you're into that, but you know what I mean). Income tax abolished. The rich already pay most of the taxes. HOWEVER, we switch to a consumption tax — the only way to "tax" the rich from the left's brain. Poor people can complete education in finance, etc. (this will be taught by the former IRS agents we no longer need). When they complete this, they get their consumption tax refunded.

C. There are ways to grow prosperity for all people, protect the environment, and thrive — but those ways aren't going to come from the economic morons we have in office currently (with very few exceptions).

PILLAR 2 — WAR / FOREIGN POLICY / NATIONAL SECURITY

A. Much is made about the military budget. However, the spending is about 6% of our spending. If we continue to spend this amount, we can have the best technology on the planet and be ready to explore other planets. Other countries are aiming for this — we should as well. We should also be able to use our military for humanitarian aid and engineering, to help emerging countries get stronger in terms of their ability to survive and grow. Poor populations tend to cause issues. If we help other nations, we can lower these issues as their countries become more stable, and this can be done without spending any extra money than we are already spending.

B. Worldwide cooperation to see that NO country gets new nuclear powers. This is a clear and obvious solution that the entire world, for the most part, can participate in.

PILLAR 3 — GOVERNMENT / LEADERSHIP / INSTITUTIONAL TRUST

This issue will be unpopular until people understand it. There are about as many people in the Senate and Congress as the NBA. We pay them either their current $140K plus healthcare, and they sell us out to make a ton of money — or they sign up for the $14 million a year option, where they are not allowed to spend their time raising money, they are not allowed to work in businesses later that have a conflict of interest, and we basically get to spy on them within reason while they are in office. Watch us get some NBA-level talent going in. This beeeeyyyyaaaaatch!!!!

PILLAR 4 — CRIME / PUBLIC SAFETY

Any crime if undocumented is deportation. Violent crime needs to be focused on — violent crime always has hefty cash bail. Other types of crime, maybe the cash bail thing is okay, but probably not. Rescheduling of drugs. Revisiting of private prisons. Just like the military, we keep the same budget but repurpose how that budget is used. Cops go back to the "protect and serve" motto. Graffiti and disruptive protest that blocks traffic, etc., get rubber bullets and water hoses or equivalent. False accusations carry massive penalty. Knowingly lying as a news source is illegal. Passing on false info requires outlets to call themselves parody. Frivolous lawsuits have large penalty. Many types of crime that nobody cares about need to be reduced or taken off the books. Doing drugs in public has to be illegal — if you are getting caught doing drugs, you need help. Who cares if people do drugs in their house as long as they don't hurt anyone.

PILLAR 5 — RACE RELATIONS / CIVIL RIGHTS

Things were fine during 9/11. What happened? Real Americans that are around other races know there is very little racism. The whites who are worried about it are people who literally don't know any other races, and they are just projecting from the college class they went to. Race relations will get better and better as we continue to grow our manufacturing jobs, which is on a huge uptick. Both Rs and Ds are responsible for hollowing out our cities and causing large ghettos and areas that have turned into gang lands. Neither have done anything to fix it. Flint, Michigan rant (the water, the pipes) — we raise the money to fix it and do it ourselves. Why are we waiting for politicians? This does not invalidate crime statistics or IQ statistics. What it does is show that 80% of Americans want to work together regardless of race and just simply make everything better. There is no time for excuses. The politicians do more to divide us than to help us.

PILLAR 6 — HEALTHCARE

This is the same principle as the political party: we need to make a large group of people and make demands on what we want from healthcare. (That was a typo, but I like it — it's catchy.) In a capitalist society, once there are enough people willing to pay, for example, $100 a month and demand fair healthcare — without a roll of toilet paper costing $50 — a company will rise up to fill that need. So far, what we have is companies just doing barely better than the other guy and making as much money as they can. This is because we are not organized as citizens in our society. If we were, they would not be able to get away with this. And this is the exact reason why our politicians have performed so poorly. It is not the fault of the system — the system is the only reason our country is doing so well, because it is designed to prevent damage from idiots. And idiots are what have been running the country for decades. And people who only care about money have been running healthcare. This is only something WE can change. There will never be a CEO or a president we elect that can change any of this. It is up to us, the citizens, to create this change from the ground up. We now have the technology to do it. All we have to do is join together and march as one about basic stuff we all agree on, like this.

PILLAR 7 — IMMIGRATION

It's called HUMANE immigration. An open border with whoever can pay the cartel $6K is not humane immigration. It's not humane for the citizens. It's not humane for the immigrant. We saw how easy it was to close the border with a few pen strokes. It's an 80% issue that it needs to be closed. However, for legal immigration that helps our country, everyone agrees with that too — but it has to be fair and not designed to help one group over another. And both systems have been massively taken advantage of, and that needs to stop. But also, it got a little out of control recently, but that is how people are going to react when the thing was blown wide open for no reason, just to spite a previous president. There needs to be a law that any person that knowingly acts to weaken the country's border is guilty of treason. This should not even have to be said. It is such common sense, and this applies to US citizens as well, especially if your name is Nick. This should never be accepted. Legal immigration is fine. People who want to weaken a nation's border, by definition, are traitors. It's plain and simple.

PILLAR 8 — SOCIAL / CULTURAL ISSUES (Abortion, Values, Education)

There are certain cats you let out of the bag that can never go back in. Here is one of the clearest ways you can see we think differently and our solutions work. Women's bodies are women's bodies. They can do whatever they want with their body. Even if we don't agree with what they do, that is their prerogative. The solution here is for men to #pullout and stop getting women pregnant who don't want to be pregnant. If men would just do this, women wouldn't have to take harmful birth control that often turns them crazy and ruins their biological systems. This is a solution that men can join together and help women with immensely. Values: We have to teach kids both the good and the bad of the past. It seems like these days people just want to talk about slavery and genocide. Well, kids need to learn how the USA is the first country to say that your rights come from the Creator, not from a government. These types of things need to be taught so that kids never fall for government control that will destroy humanity. It has taken thousands of years for humans to get where we are, and billions of years for the universe to get to humans (according to science), so don't you think we should be a little bit more careful about talking about all this crap like humanity is something special and amazing? And stop scapegoating one group of people for all the problems? Education: Will expand on this, but it's lectures at home on tech devices, and it's homework at school. Totally flip it. The actual plan to make college damn near free. And the principles that must be taught are based on freedom and empowerment, so kids know their divine rights and aren't brainwashed into depression and anxiety. $1 million prize for best online curriculum for each grade — this will save us billions alone. There is no reason, with modern tech, that kids are going to class to listen to their teacher talk anymore. Y is for Y chromosome, to keep that going. It's for men, but also women who love (good) men, regardless of sex preference — that's not the point. But it's for men and women that want to work together and create an amazing society that lives even close to the potential we have in the modern world. Of course, there are some bad women and bad men, and we don't want you in our organization. But if you hate entire groups of people, you don't belong in our movement. (But also, we don't disavow anyone — if you agree in our axioms, then please, by all means, get a voter's guide and vote accordingly.)

SECTION 2: THE AXIOMS

Y: Politics As a Service — Even for Non-Political Citizens.

What makes our movement different:

1. Non-partisan, party-agnostic. This is not a third party. The two existing parties will change to adapt to our group and its numbers and strength in policy demands. Our movement will organize and vote for either party, depending on who caters to our will the most.

2. We do not waste our time trying to change the system. We change the way we citizens organize and operate the system as is. This is the only way to make the system work for us. If the system is working for us, it is a brilliantly created system. However, thus far the system has worked for others outside the citizens, including other countries and corporations.

3. We will amass a membership so large that politicians will have to put our goals and aspirations into law, such that we are served by the government, not vice versa.

4. We will be the biggest-tent group organization on the planet, because we do not care about people's sexuality, background, skin tone, or any of the other nonsense. We care about reaching the goals we set out.

5. We realize that the current political class is, absolutely for sure, not the cream of the crop of our civilization, and we demand better leadership.

With the resources and technology this planet has, there is no reason for there to be poverty. Although we realize that poor people today in some countries live better than the rich lived centuries ago, we know that what we are being sold, and who it is being sold to us by, are not good enough.

We also know that there needs to be a better level of incentive to get the most talented people in leadership to participate on the government side, and we know that there needs to be stricter penalties as well as higher rewards in this regard. There are less than 1,000 members of our top form of government, and we don't even have 1,000 of our best million people involved on the government side. That needs to change.

6. We are not about division. We are about common sense. We refuse to be told that our current officials have our best interest at heart. This is easily provable. Their lust for power will lead them to adopt our axioms, because if they don't, they will have no chance to be elected once our organization is fully operational.

7. What we are doing has never been done before. We are not a party. We are not a non-profit. We are a for-profit organization and research institute that works for the people, to deliver the people's agenda to the political system. We are changing the paradigm. We will be feeding the system our ideas from the best minds in society, instead of the current situation, where we are being fed bad ideas and poor innovation and instructions from a class of political figures who are historically unpopular, ineffective, and disliked.

8. We understand that politics is literally about choosing the better of the two evils currently. We understand that not participating can have disastrous effects. We agree that communism on a mass scale belongs in the trash can of ideas in history. HOWEVER, we can provide what communism promises — clean water, food, shelter for all — with a system that actually works. The reason voting for the lesser of two evils is still worthwhile is because once a country falls into communism, it is very hard to get out of communism without first moving to fascism. Communism is a nice idea for small groups and families, but for governments it never works, and never well, because absolute power corrupts absolutely. What this means is that you cannot give a small group that much power and have a positive outcome. It always leads to famine and death, and the rich are EVEN richer in communism than in capitalism. We will educate the misguided people with good expositions of the folly of communism, as well as provide the solutions communism promised. In the meantime, while our system begins to clean up the candidates available and raise the bar for our nation's most powerful people, we will provide voting guides for each political position, all the way down to the local school boards, so that people who are busy working and need a quick guide of who to vote for — no matter what party they are from or if they are independent — we will provide that based on our 8 axioms.

An axiom is a statement or principle that is accepted as true without proof. It serves as a starting point for reasoning or a logical system. In math and logic, axioms are the basic assumptions everything else is built on (for example, "a straight line can be drawn between any two points" in geometry). In everyday use, it just means a fundamental truth or self-evident idea. We will show ample proof that our positions are indeed axioms. They do not need to float or change with the tides. They will create systems where all in humanity can survive and thrive while maintaining 100% of their freedom and individuality.

Voter fraud will be impossible when we have a critical mass of members who are voting in lockstep. We can prove our members voted without giving up their data. This will provide a check and balance to any type of voting system.

KEY NOTE: NOTHING WE DO REPLACES THE CURRENT SYSTEM OR HAS AUTHORITY OR ASPIRES TO INSURRECT OR TAKE OVER ANYTHING. We are simply organizing the citizens in an effective way to change how we interact as citizens with the system, in ways that were not possible before, without modern technologies and network abilities.